TALK OF THE TOWN

Our annual sale sheets and pillow slips at Vaughan's.

S. Comoli of Cambria street is confined to the house by illness.

Herbert Carpenter, who has been receiving treatment at the City hospital for the double fracture of his right arm, which he sustained while employed at Hatch's mill in Newbury last week, is able to be out of doors. Mr. Carpenter will return to his home in Groton within a few days.

A number of Berlin street young people had a narrow escape from serious injury while sliding across the Williams-town track last night. The traverse sled collided with a post and sent the passengers rolling in several directions. Young Louis Frattini, who is employed at the Consolidated Lighting Co.'s office, received a bad bruise on the arm. He was able to be at work today, although his right arm is of little use to him. Undue carelessness among the coasters on Berlin street has caused several accidents in that section lately. Only last week a little girl came coasting down Berlin street hill just as a C. V. freighter was passing the crossing. Before she could stop the sled, it had collided with one end of the train, which was moving slowly. The sled was shattered into bits, but the child escaped without so much as a scratch. Police officers have warned the coasters to use more care hereafter.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Luigi Croci of 15 Ladd street will leave this city evening for New York, where they are to sail Wednesday on the French liner, La Provence, for their former home near Milan, Italy. They will not return to Barre until early in the fall.

The following item from Saturday's Boston Transcript concerns two figures in the evangelistic field whose work is well known in Barre: "Rev. Wentworth Fleming Stewart of this city is conducting an evangelistic campaign in Newburgh, N. Y., reaching all classes, with meetings in factories for operatives and down-town halls for business men, at various hours so that all may be able to attend. The campaign includes services in a number of churches and it has elicited a sympathetic response from citizens. The work has been aided by a choir assembled from several churches, directed by Bartlett F. Stewart, a nephew of the evangelist."

Barre granite is to be used for a monument soon to be erected in Southbridge, Mass., in memory of the soldiers and sailors who went out from that town to fight in the Civil war. Kavanagh Bros. of Quincy have been awarded the contract for the memorial, the base of which will be 10 feet square, of solid granite. Including the bronze figure of a soldier, the monument is to be 20 feet 8 inches high. The base will be divided into three separate bases, each weighing 13 tons, and the die on the main shaft will be a cube of 4 feet, at each corner of which will be a vertical cannon in relief. Above the cube will be a beautifully designed frieze of rosettes, triglyphs, carved leaves and a festoon of laurel in high relief. It will be ready for the dedicatory exercises July 4 next.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thibault and children, who have made their home in Westerville for some years, were visitors in the city this forenoon, leaving at 11:25 for Lowell, Mass., where they will take up their residence. Mr. Thibault having secured a position there.

Miss Laura Donahue was the guest of honor at a reception tendered in her honor at the home of Miss Marie Boyce on Elm street Saturday night. An excellent program of musical and literary numbers was given and dainty refreshments were served.

The Barre council, Knights of Columbus, will hold an exemplification of the first degree at the council rooms on Wednesday evening, January 21. The degree work will be in charge of the local council. A class of about twenty is expected to take the degree.

Among the guests registered at the City hotel over the week-end were the following: C. H. Moore and niece, Miss Margaret Reed, New York; J. A. Raycraft, Burlington; C. E. Grossarth, Burlington; H. P. Oliver, Portland, Me.; John J. Walsh, Dorchester, Mass.; J. A. Bartlett, Akron, O.

A large number of Barre people have returned from Marshfield, where they attended the house warming reception tendered to Mrs. Walter William at her farm in Marshfield Friday evening. There were about seventy present, including many neighbors. During the evening a musical and literary program was carried through and refreshments were served.

Arrangements are being perfected for the first Barre rehearsal of the recently organized choral union, composed of Montpelier and Barre musicians. The director, Nelson P. Coffin, of Keene, N. H., is to be present to direct the rehearsal in person. Feb. 11 has been fixed as a tentative date for the rehearsal, although it is possible that it will be held earlier in the month.

About 15 friends of Miss Annie and Allen Sullivan of 21 Brooklyn street gathered at their home Saturday afternoon and gave them a surprise party, it being Miss Ellen's six birthday anniversary. Each one brought a gift. Refreshments of cake and ice cream, fruit and candy were served and the party left for their homes about 6 o'clock, having had an enjoyable time.

Special Agent George W. Shannon of Montpelier, a representative of the Vermont Humane society, was in the city today investigating several cases of alleged cruelty to animals. While here he also looked into the charge that certain horse owners are compelling their horses to stand out of doors in all kinds of weather without the protection of blankets. Mr. Shannon is intent on carrying out the law to its last letter and after warning the owners of horses and dogs that further violations will be prosecuted, he returned to Montpelier. In the event that anyone doubts the authority of an officer to prosecute, Mr. Shannon cites the conviction in Burlington city court Saturday of one John Pepper for alleged cruelty to his horse. He was charged with leaving the animal out in the cold without proper protection. On a sentence of 60 days in the county jail, Pepper took an appeal.

Frank Civelli of 17 Vine street arrived in the city last night from New York, where he landed Saturday from the Italian line steamship, Verona, after passing five months at his former home near Milan, Italy. Mr. Civelli reports an unusually harrowing passage. He shipped from Genoa in the early days of January, expecting to reach New York in 11 days, the time usually consumed in making the voyage. For four days to go that later whipped shipping all along the Atlantic seaboard followed the Verona, during which time the ship was unable to make any progress. There were many passengers aboard and among them there dwelt the fear that help would have to be secured by wireless call. The ship steamed into New York harbor Saturday, after having been at sea 18 days. Her decks were crusted with ice.

School boys have renewed the troublesome practice of cutting the ropes which are used to raise and lower the arc lights on the Consolidated Lighting company's system. Two years ago the practice was nipped in the bud, but reports from the north end indicate that the youngsters have repeated the wanton acts in several instances. Sunday the rope attached to an arc at the corner of Beckett and Third streets was severed, evidently with a jackknife. The lamp was lowered to within eight feet of the ground. The same process was repeated at the entrance to Shurtleff place. Officials of the lighting company were notified in time to repair the damage before nightfall. An effort is being made to identify the young mischief-makers and severe punishment will be meted out to them if they are caught. Cutting the ropes involves the danger of breaking the arcs as well as that of teams colliding with the suspended lamps in the night.

Nearly all of the Barre birds that are to be exhibited at the annual show of the Vermont Poultry association were transported to Montpelier this morning and placed in coops to await the opening of the exhibit to-morrow morning. For the next two days Montpelier will be the mecca for poultry men from all parts of the state. Early entries point to an unprecedented showing of birds from a distance. Judges W. H. Card of Manchester, Conn., and H. R. Ingalls, who are to pass judgment on the merits of the birds in their respective classes, arrived in the city today and will be the guests of Barre poultry fanciers while the show is in progress. To-morrow evening Mr. Card will give a free lecture at the assembly on "The Improvement in Poultry Breeding."

TOLD TALE OF CAPTIVITY.

Utica, N. Y., Nurse Says She Was Held by a Man.

New York, Jan. 19.—Margaret Kennedy, a trained nurse, who came here from her home in Utica, N. Y., told a story on her cot in a hospital last night of having been attacked by a strange man who she believes was a white slaver on a street corner Saturday night and kept a prisoner in a building, which the police are trying to locate, until she made her escape. Miss Kennedy was found in a hysterical condition at Third avenue and Forty-second street. At the hospital she was placed in the psychopathic ward. She is 26 years old.

CARDINAL PLAYS MODERN SOCIETY

O'Connell Hopes "New Woman" Will Go No Further.

Boston, Jan. 19.—Tendencies of modern society were deplored by Cardinal O'Connell in a sermon delivered yesterday.

"The play, the magazine, the ballroom," he said, "all give evidence of an ever-increasing disregard of even the rudiments of common decency of dress, of deportment, of conversation and of conduct."

"We need by neither prude nor puritan to see and to realize that something is passing in the heart and the mind of the women of to-day which is leaving them hard and unwomanly, and that year by year this transformation goes on, until if it continues there will be neither home nor family nor normal womanly nature left.

"If this is the new woman, then God spare us from any further development of an abnormal creature. Thank God the woman who is true to her faith is not easily influenced by these modern fads of a new paganism. She has her standards, and she stands by them unchanged."
